"My son is learning to drive with Mr Neil Bendig. He is always on time and is great communicator. My son is getting confident already and holding the wheel steady with just a few lessons. We will continue with A1 until test time. Thanks Mr Bendig and A1."

"Thanks for all the help and support you guys have given me with learning to drive. My test is hopefully coming up very soon provided I can fix my car and I'm pretty confident I'll pass. Neil even said himself he was sure I'd pass."

"Despite a rocky start on my behalf today I'm happy to hear that Neil thinks I should be preparing for my test now. He thinks given a months time if I keep up my driving I should be ready."

"Neil Bendig deserves an award for the most patient driving instructor of 2024. I suffer from a pretty bad case of dyslexia, which unfortunately happens to affect my Left & Rights (which as you can imagine would be kind of difficult to follow instructions lol) and not to mention the performance anxiety that comes with it on top of that which just creates a recipe for tons of accident prone silly mistakes. I've had my fair share of impatient, short-tempered coaches in the past that ultimately couldn't handle teaching me anymore lol.

Neil was so supportive and incredibly patient with me (and would actually take the time to explain the reasons behind each of the rules and even showing me visual examples in a booklet which I found really helped me to retain the information a lot better), and ultimately giving me the boost of self confidence I needed in order to actually PASS my restricted licence!! I've never been more happy and grateful to have been randomly put with an instructor like him. Thank you so much."

"I had Neil as my instructor and for it only being the second time I had ever driven he was calm and affirmative when I was driving on the road. He also kept a chatty car ride while I was driving which was nice as I wasn't overthinking extremely about what I was doing. It was also nice that we did the drive route more than once as the many trials were extremely helpful with getting used to driving again after a little accident I had prior. Overall Neil was great and always kept me safe, calm, and aware while I driving. This was really appreciated and hope to see him next week for lesson 2."
